

Away Team Volunteer Induction Policy

1. Policy Statement

Rural Aid Ltd recognises the importance of the induction process for new Volunteers of the organisation. The induction process allows Volunteers to fully understand their terms and conditions of Volunteer placement and their responsibilities within Rural Aid Ltd.

The induction process is also valuable for:

- 1.1 Decreasing the anxiety of new Volunteer;
- 1.2 Assisting current Volunteers to understand how the new person will fit into the team’s environment;
- 1.3 Raising the new Volunteer’s awareness of Rural Aid’s vision, and strategy, and their role in the achievement of the overall objectives.

2. Definition

Induction is a systematic introduction of a new Volunteer to their position, co-workers and Rural Aid. Therefore, the induction process is the first step in aligning an individual’s objectives with that of the organisation.

3. The Induction Process

Volunteers will be inducted into the workplace through an onsite induction process, on their first day of commencing with Rural Aid Ltd. This process will be as follows;

- 3.1 Ensure a suitable onsite program is available for volunteer inductions;
- 3.2 Ensure each volunteer receives an “Away Team Induction Packet” prior to the start of the induction;
- 3.3 Encourage the new Volunteer to ask questions during the induction;
- 3.4 At the completion of the induction process, both the new Volunteer and the person conducting the induction are to complete the “Away Team Induction Checklist” to ensure all information was covered;
- 3.5 Ensure the person conducting the induction returns all “Away Team Induction Packets” to the Human Resources Department at the completion of the project.

5. Policy Review

This Induction Policy will be reviewed annually or as required due to policy changes.

Discipline Policy and Procedure

Policy Statement:

All staff/volunteer are required to adhere to Rural Aid Ltd policies and procedures which reflect the behaviour expected, and are designed to encourage integrity and professionalism.

The Discipline Policy and Procedure is the policy and procedure for which all staff/volunteer are expected to observe in the course of their volunteer roles or employment with Rural Aid Ltd.

Application of the Policy:

This policy applies to all staff/volunteer of Rural Aid. The policy shall be implemented in accordance with appropriate industrial relations legislation and the relevant Award and/or Enterprise Agreement as amended from time to time.

The purpose of the Discipline Policy and Procedure is designed to provide a structured corrective action process to improve and prevent a recurrence of undesirable behaviour and/or performance issues. It has been designed with our organisations values, best practices and current employment laws.

Rural Aid Statement:

The following are guidelines and steps of Rural Aid's Discipline Policy and Procedure. Rural Aid Ltd reserves the right to alter the procedure, depending upon facts of each situation and the nature of the offense. The level of disciplinary action may also vary. Some of the factors that will be considered will depend upon whether the offense is repeated despite counselling and/or training, the volunteer or employees work record, the severity impact of the conduct and performance issues may have on the organisation or other individuals involved.

Rural Aid Ltd also reserves the right to contact independent Industrial Relations advisors or Lawyers to handle any discipline action they may see necessary.

Underlying Principles:

- 8.1.1 A discipline process is instigated to address conduct and/or behaviour which impedes the operation of the service operating under Rural Aid Ltd;
- 8.1.2 Disciplinary matters are managed confidentially, and respectfully for all persons involved;
- 8.1.3 Disciplinary matters are addressed in a timely and effective manner where possible;
- 8.1.4 All parties in a disciplinary process are entitled to procedural fairness and the final decision on any action to be taken will be in the best interests of Rural Aid Ltd;
- 8.1.5 Any staff/volunteer member facing a disciplinary process is entitled to due process and will have an opportunity to formally respond and can have a support person present at all points in the disciplinary process.

All Staff/Volunteer Discipline Policy for Serious Misconduct:

If there are serious concerns about a volunteer or employees conduct, which may include serious breach of the organisations policy(s), neglect of performance and duty or other serious misconduct, the following procedures may be followed in accordance with the current requirements of the industrial relations legislation, and/or the provisions of the relevant Award and/or Enterprise Agreement.

Under industrial relations legislation, this procedure does not affect the right of the employer to dismiss summarily any volunteer or employee for incompetence, theft, fraud, misrepresentation, neglect of duty and other serious misconduct.

Serious Misconduct:

A staff/volunteer member's performance is below the expected standard for their particular role;

- dishonesty and fraud;
- failure to disclose information on job application;
- bullying, fighting or abusive behaviour;
- sexual harassment;
- continual lateness and absenteeism;
- drunkenness and/or illegal drug use;
- acting in an unsafe manner;
- misusing confidential information;
- misusing workplace email/internet (including pornographic material etc.);
- breach of WH&S obligations;
- misconduct in the workplace or during working hours or refusing reasonable lawful instructions.
- breach of any Act or Legislation relating to the employee's employment.

Reporting of alleged misconduct:

Once a Line Manager and/or Human Resources department has received information of alleged misconduct they will assess and investigate the alleged misconduct and the information that is available to evaluate what disciplinary process if any, is to be taken.

The initial assessment of the misconduct is conducted promptly where possible and may include:

- assessing relevant documentation
- interviewing person/s who may have knowledge of the employee's alleged misconduct.
- conducting a workplace investigation.

If the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department determines that there is enough evidence to the alleged misconduct, the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department may recommend to the Chief Executive Officer or relevant manger that a disciplinary procedure or action is to be taken.

Procedure of Disciplinary Action:

Step 1: Counselling and Verbal Warning:

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will schedule a meeting with the staff/volunteer member to bring attention to the existing performance, conduct or attendance issue. The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will discuss with the volunteer or employee the nature of the performance, conduct or attendance issue and clearly advise of Rural Aid's policies and procedures or behaviours.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will clearly outline the expectations and steps the staff/volunteer member must take to improve performance, conduct or attendance issue. The staff/volunteer member will be required to demonstrate corrective action or improvement in their performance, within an agreed timeframe with the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department.

If the staff/volunteer member does not improve to a suitable level within the agreed timeframes, further disciplinary action may be taken.

The employer reserves the right to proceed to formal warning process/summarily dismissal dependent upon the circumstances of each individual case.

Step 2: Written Warning:

If the alleged misconduct is deemed serious enough the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will proceed to a written warning.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will schedule a meeting with the staff/volunteer member to bring attention to the existing performance, conduct or attendance issue.

The staff/volunteer member will be informed in writing of the details of the nature of the serious misconduct or performance. The letter will outline the details of the alleged misconduct or performance issue and will also inform the volunteer or employee that they will be required to reply in writing to the allegations by a set date. The letter will also include a meeting date to be held between the volunteer or employee and the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department. The staff/volunteer member will also be offered to bring a support person to attend the meeting. This support person can be a friend, family member etc.

At the meeting, the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will review and discuss the allegations and any additional incidents or information as well as any prior relevant corrective action plans with the volunteer or employee and their responses to these allegations. The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will outline the consequences to the volunteer or employee of their continued failure to meet conduct expectations and/or performance.

A formal performance improvement plan, requiring the employee's immediate and sustained corrective action may be issued within seven (7) working days of the meeting. The staff/volunteer member will also be warned that continued performance or misconduct may be subject to additional disciplinary process up to and including termination if the staff/volunteer member's behaviour, conduct or performance does not improve.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department reserves the right to bring an independent Industrial Relations advisor to assist in this meeting and the staff/volunteer member will be notified of the independent Industrial Relations involvement.

Step 3: Show Cause – why you should not be terminated:

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department may schedule a show cause meeting. The purpose of this meeting is to ask the staff/volunteer member to show cause why they should not be terminated.

The staff/volunteer member will be given a letter outlining the allegations of the specific issues. The staff/volunteer member may be stood down on full pay (applicable for paid staff/volunteer) until a meeting is scheduled and the staff/volunteer member (applicable for paid staff/volunteer member) will be required to reply in writing to the allegations as to why they should not be terminated prior to attending the meeting. The staff/volunteer member will be given an opportunity to bring a support person along to this meeting.

All aspects of confidentiality will be strictly enforced during this process.

A decision surrounding the employee's continued employment will be made at this meeting.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department reserves the right to bring an independent Industrial Relations advisor or lawyer to assist in this meeting.

Termination Notice and Entitlements (Not applicable for volunteers):

Any staff/volunteer member that has been terminated for misconduct/performance (except for serious misconduct) will be given notice as per the Award/Enterprise Agreement and National Employment Standard (NES).

Terminated staff/volunteer members will be paid out on the any outstanding annual leave, (loadings), long service leaves (if applicable) or TOIL on the next pay cycle after the date of termination.

No written references will be issued to staff/volunteer upon ceasing employment. A Statement of Service will be issued to the employee.

A Centrelink Separation Certificate will also be issued as well.

Workplace Investigations:

Rural Aid may conduct workplace investigations if an allegation of serious misconduct associated with Workplace Harassment/Bullying or Sexual Harassment, theft etc.

The staff/volunteer member who has been accused of an allegation will be informed of the matter verbally and in writing. The staff/volunteer member will be advised that they may be stood down on full pay until a full independent investigation has been completed. (Not applicable for volunteers).

The volunteer who has been accused of an allegation will be informed of the matter verbally and maybe stood down from their volunteer role until a full independent investigation has been completed.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources Department may initiate an investigation into the allegations. This may be done by an Independent investigator and will include gathering relevant information, written statements, interviews documents and records. Other staff/volunteer members may be required to be interviewed as part of the investigation.

All staff/volunteer members that are involved in the investigation will be required to maintain their confidentiality. All information supplied by staff/volunteer members that is provided to the independent investigators will also be kept confidential.

Workplace Investigation Findings:

The investigators will produce a report once they have interviewed all relevant parties, including the volunteer or employee accused of the allegation. The report will outline the investigators findings and recommendations.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will decide, based on the final report on what cause of action that they are prepare to initiate.

Depending on the findings, and if the allegations and proof is substantiated the Line Manager and/or Human Resources department will proceed with issuing the alleged staff/volunteer member with a Show Cause letter.

The staff/volunteer member will be afforded a right of reply regarding the allegations in writing which is to be supplied at least 24 hours before the meeting, and will be able to bring a support person to the meeting. In the event termination occurs, the volunteer or employee will be given the appropriate notice under the National Employment Standards and other outstanding lawful entitlements.

The Line Manager and/or Human Resources department reserves the right to bring an independent industrial relations advisor to assist in this meeting.

Confidentiality:

All persons associated with any procedures within this policy should maintain confidentiality and only discuss the matter with those who have responsibility for dealing with the matter. If it has been found that there is a breach of confidentiality, further additional discipline action will be taken, which may result in termination.

External Agencies:

An employee can go to their appropriate union, legal representative or Fair Work Commission for assistance with their complaint. They may advise the complainant to follow the organisation policy before they will assist the complainant. (Not applicable for volunteers).

Responsibilities:

All staff/volunteer members are expected to conduct themselves in a manner which respects the rights and welfare of other members of the organisation its clients and both internal and external stakeholders and to show competence, care, good faith and compliance with instructions, policies and procedures in the performance of their duties.

All staff/volunteer members will be made aware of the Discipline Policy and Procedure and must abide by this policy and procedure, as updated or issued from time to time, and by any directions given to volunteers or employees by Rural Aid in the course of their volunteer role or employment.

Policy Review:

The Discipline Policy and Procedure will be reviewed annually, and all volunteers or employees will be trained and educated and will be required to sign an acknowledgement that they understand the policy.

Should the need arise; the policies will be translated into appropriate languages.

Rural Aid Ltd is committed to providing an environment which is safe for all volunteers or employees.

Accordingly, the All parties, Employees and volunteers agree that the Organisation is entitled to, in addition to all other rights and remedies, available to it at law or in equity, an injunction restraining the All parties, employees and volunteers, any of their personnel, and any agents of the All parties, employees and volunteers, from directly or indirectly committing or engaging in any act restricted by this Agreement in relation to the Confidential Information.

Return of Confidential Information

The All parties, Employees and volunteers agrees that, upon request of the Organisation, or in the event that the All parties, Employees and volunteers ceases to require use of the Confidential Information, or upon expiration or termination of this Agreement, or the expiration or termination of the All parties, Employees and volunteers engagement, the All parties, Employees and volunteers will turn over to the Organisation all documents, disks or other computer media, or other material in the possession or control of the All parties, Employees and volunteers that:

- may contain or be derived from ideas, concepts, creations, or trade secrets and other propriety and Confidential Information as defined in this Agreement; or
- is connected with or derived from the All parties, employees and volunteers services to the Organisation.

Notices

- In the event that the All parties, Employees and volunteers are required in a civil, criminal or regulatory proceeding to disclose any part of the Confidential Information, the All parties, Employees and volunteers will give to the Organisation prompt written notice of such request so the Organisation may seek an appropriate remedy or alternatively to waive the All parties, employees and volunteers' compliance with the provisions of this Agreement in regards to the request.
- If the All parties, Employees and volunteers lose or fails to maintains in the confidentiality of any of the Confidential Information in breach of this Agreement, the All parties, Employees and volunteers will immediately notify the Organisation and take all reasonable steps necessary to retrieve the lost or improperly disclosed Confidential Information.
- Any notice or delivery required in this Agreement will be deemed completed when:
 - Hand-delivered;
 - Delivered by agent;
 - Sent by email to the parties at the email addresses contained in this Agreement or as the parties may later designate in writing, after a successful confirmation report is received via email; or
 - Seven (7) days after being placed in the post, postage prepaid, to the parties at the addresses contained in this Agreement or as the parties may later designate in writing.

Representations

In providing the Confidential Information, the Organisation makes no representations, either express or implied as to its adequacy, sufficiency, completeness, correctness or its lack of defect of any kind, including any patent or trade mark infringement that may result from the use of such information. The Organisation will not be liable for any damage or loss that may occur from such provision or use of the Confidential Information.

Termination

This Agreement will automatically terminate on the date that the All parties, employees and volunteers's engagement with the Organisation terminates or expires, as the case may be. All rights and obligations under this Agreement should be kept confidential. Breach of this agreement may lead Rural Aid to take disciplinary action if required.

Assignment

Except where a party has changed its corporate name or merged with another corporation, this Agreement may not be assigned or otherwise transferred by either party in whole or part without the prior written consent of the other party to this Agreement.

Amendments

This Agreement may only be amended or modified by a written instrument executed by both the Organisation and the All parties, employees and volunteers.

Governing Law

This Agreement will be construed in accordance with and governed by the laws of the State of Queensland.

General Provisions

- Headings are inserted for the convenience of the parties only and are not to be considered when interpreting this Agreement. Words in the singular mean and include the plural and vice versa. Words in the masculine mean and include the feminine and vice versa.
- The clauses, paragraphs, and subparagraphs contained in this Agreement are intended to be read and construed independently of each other. If any part of this Agreement is held to be invalid, this invalidity will not affect the operation of any other part of this Agreement.
- The Organisation and the All parties, Employees and volunteers acknowledge that this Agreement is reasonable, valid and enforceable. However, if a court of competent jurisdiction finds any of the provisions of this Agreement to be too broad to be enforceable, it is the intention of the Organisation and the All parties, Employees and volunteers that such provision be reduced in scope by the court only to the extent deemed necessary by that court to render the provision reasonable and enforceable, bearing in mind that it is the intention of the All parties, Employees and volunteers to give the Organisation the broadest possible protection to maintain the confidentiality of the Confidential Information.
- No failure or delay by the Organisation in exercising any power, right or privilege provided in this Agreement will operate as a waiver, nor will any single or partial exercise of such rights, powers or privileges preclude any further exercise of them or the exercise of any other right, power or privilege provided in this Agreement.
- This Agreement constitutes the entire agreement between the parties and there are no further items or provisions, either oral or otherwise.

Introduction

All manual work involves lifting and handling to some extent. Although mechanical equipment should be used whenever practicable, much of the work will inevitably continue to be done manually. The risk of injury can be greatly reduced by a knowledge and application of correct lifting and handling techniques and by taking a few elementary precautions.

Common Injuries

Strains and sprains to muscles and joints, torn ligaments and tendons, disc trouble and hernias. These are often caused by sudden and awkward movements, e.g. twisting or jerking while lifting, or handling heavy loads; they are also caused by persons attempting to lift loads beyond their physical capabilities. The muscles of the abdominal wall are particularly vulnerable, and excessive strain may lead to ruptures.

Cuts and abrasions from rough surfaces, sharp or jagged edges, splinters, projections, etc. Protective clothing should be worn; especially leather or PVC gloves to protect the hands.

Back injuries are most frequently sustained while lifting and handling manually. They may be the cumulative effect of repeated minor injuries, or the result of an abrupt strain. Stoop lifting should be avoided; it greatly increases the chances of sustaining back injuries. Laboratory tests show that the stresses imposed on a rounded back during stoop lifting is six times that experienced if the trunk is kept erect while bending at the knees.

The risk of injury is reduced by knowledge of correct lifting techniques and not by attempting to lift excessively heavy loads without assistance.

Crushing of limbs, etc. by falling loads, or by fingers, hands or feet becoming trapped by loads. Correct positioning of hands and feet in relation to the movement of the load is essential. Timber wedges should be used when raising or lowering heavy loads to prevent fingers and hands becoming crushed. Safety shoes with steel toe caps will protect the feet. Soles of footwear should also provide a secure grip.

Lifting capacities

The weight that can be lifted by any individual will vary according to personal physique, age, condition and practice, and the techniques employed. Compact loads of up to 25 kg can be safely carried by an average male worker providing the proper techniques are used. The general rule is that the load should not be lifted if it causes a feeling of strain. Assistance should be available if required; an employee must not be required to lift loads beyond his capacity.

Special factors in operation	Rough guide
Operation repeated once or twice a minute	Reduce weight by 30%
Operation repeated five to eight times a minute	Reduce weight by 50%
Operation repeated more than 12 times per minute	Reduce weight by 80%
'Average' female	Reduce weight by 30%
Handler twists through 45 degrees	Reduce weight by 10%
Handler twists through 90 degrees	Reduce weight by 20%
Handler seated and twisting	Less than 5 kg
Handler seated	About 5 kg
Pushing or pulling a load (assumed that force is applied with hands between knuckle and shoulder height)	About 25 kg for starting or stopping a load About 10 kg for keeping a load in motion

Youthful exuberance and bravado often tempt younger employees to attempt to lift loads that are too heavy. While they may succeed in the short term, long term damage may be done. Lifting capacity declines with age and an older person may not be capable of lifting the same load as a younger person; although this can be offset by employing a better technique.

Before lifting and handling any load, the following points should be established:

- What has to be moved?
- What does it weigh?
- Can it be safely handled by one person?
- Where is the load's centre of gravity?
- Does it really have to be moved?
- How far does it have to be moved and from where to where?
- Will assistance be required?
- Can the process that requires it to be moved be changed?
- Can the move be carried out more safely with mechanical assistance?

Suitable protective clothing should be worn. This may include gloves, safety footwear, safety helmets, and special overalls if hot or corrosive substances are to be carried.

Ensure that the lifting and lowering areas are clear of tripping hazards, and likewise check the route over which the load is to be carried.

Not all loads need to be carried, of course. It may be easiest to roll, slew or push them. But assistance might still be required to avoid the risk of injury.

Kinetic method of lifting

Some lifting and handling techniques employing the kinetic method are described below:

Bend at the knees (1)

The weight to be lifted must be within the lifting capacity of the individual worker and the load should be approached squarely, facing the intended direction of travel. The feet are positioned about a hip's width apart, one foot slightly in front of the body. The knees are bent and the body lowered as close to the load as possible while remaining relaxed and balanced. The back should be straight from hips to shoulders, but not necessarily vertical.

Grasp the load (2)

The load is tilted with one hand (if necessary) so that the other hand can obtain a secure grip at the corner nearest the body. The free hand is then transferred to the furthest corner of the load and drawn as close to the trunk as possible. Arms should be well tucked in to provide maximum support to the load.

Lift, using the legs (3)

The load can then be lifted by straightening the legs so that the body and load move upwards in unison. All movements should be smooth and natural. Jerking, twisting, or straining movements should be avoided. Lifting should feel comfortable. Lifting movements will remain smooth and natural providing the back and head are kept naturally erect. This is achieved by looking straight ahead when straightening the legs, instead of looking down at the load.

Carrying the load (4)

The load should be held firmly into the body and carried to where it is to be deposited. The closer the centre of gravity of the load can be kept to that of the body, the easier and more natural the lift. It is important to be able to see over or around the load so as to avoid tripping hazards.

When the weight is approaching the maximum lifting capacity of the individual, it will be necessary to lean back on the hips with the load to bring the trunk to the erect position before straightening the legs to lift the load. In this instance the body is being used simply as a counterbalance to keep muscular effort down to a minimum.

Changing grip

Grips should not be changed while carrying the load. First rest the load on a ledge or other firm support, then change the grip if necessary.

Team lifting

When large or awkward weights are involved, assistance should be sought. The assistant should be of similar height and build, so that the raised load does not become unbalanced or unevenly distributed.

Co-ordinating team activity is important in team lifting. One person should give directions during lifting, carrying and lowering. Properly designed lifting aids will enable some tasks to be performed more quickly and easily and also eliminate the risk of injury or damage

Safety checklist Manual handling and Lifting.

Preparation

- What is being lifted?
- Where to and how far?
- How many people will be needed to move the load safely?
- Are they all trained in kinetic lifting and handling?
- What methods and equipment will be required?
- Is the required equipment available?
- Would mechanical means be more practical or appropriate?
- Is the lifting and handling area clear of hazards?
- Is the operation part of a routine? If so, could it be more effectively planned and executed?

Lifting and handling

- Is the proper clothing in use?
- Are proper (kinetic) lifting methods being employed?
- Is co-ordination satisfactory in dual and team lifting?
- Is the necessary equipment in use or to hand?
- Are excessively heavy weights being lifted?
- Are loads being deposited or stacked safely and securely?
- Is adequate supervision employed where necessary?

After lifting and handling

- Are any incidents or accidents reported and recorded?
- Where injuries have been sustained, has medical attention been sought?
- Is the damage or loss of equipment etc. recorded?

Guideline Weights for Manual Handling Operations.

Each box in the diagram above shows guideline weights for lifting and lowering.

Observe the activity and compare to the diagram. If the lifter’s hands enter more than one box during the operation, use the smallest weight. Use an in-between weight if the hands are close to a boundary between boxes. If the operation must take place with the hands beyond the boxes, make a more detailed assessment.

The weights assume that the load is readily grasped with both hands.

The operation takes place in reasonable working conditions with the lifter in a stable body position.

Any operation involving more than twice the guideline weights should be rigorously assessed –even for very fit, well-trained individuals working under favourable conditions.

There is no such thing as a completely ‘safe’ manual handling operation. But working within the guidelines will cut the risk and reduce the need for a more detailed assessment.

Media Policy

Policy Statement

All parties, employees and volunteers are required to adhere to Rural Aid's policies and procedures which reflect the expected behaviors, which is designed to encourage integrity and professionalism.

The Media Policy is a set of guidelines for which all parties, employees and volunteers are expected to adhere to.

This policy forms part of all parties, employees and volunteers of Rural Aid Ltd employment conditions.

Application of Policy

This policy covers all parties, employees and volunteers and their participation on external websites and social networking websites, such as, but not limited to, Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn, YouTube, or through any other form of electronic media.

All parties, employees and volunteers access to, and use of, non-work related websites during the course of employment or volunteering is covered by Rural Aid Ltd Media Policy, which covers email, internet, and computer use.

Definitions

Social Media may include, but not limited to:

- blogs, including corporate blogs and personal blogs;
- blogs hosted by media outlets (e.g. 'comments' or 'your say');
- blogging sites (e.g. Twitter);
- forums and discussions boards, (e.g. Yahoo Groups or Google Groups, Whirlpool);
- social networking sites (e.g. Facebook, Myspace, LinkedIn);
- video and photo sharing websites (e.g. Flickr, YouTube);
- wikis and online collaborations (e.g. Wikipedia);
- podcasting;
- online multiplayer gaming platforms (e.g. Second Life, World of Warcraft);
- geo-spatial tagging (Foursquare).

Personal use of Social Media

Whilst all parties, employees and volunteers can access and use any of the above sites outside of their employment or volunteering, is a private matter, but situations may arise when Rural Aid Ltd is mentioned, or where it may be possible to link the employees or volunteers to their place of employment. It is essential that you understand that the comments you make via social media platforms are public and must adhere to Rural Aid's strict media protocols.

All parties, employees and volunteers should be aware when befriending and communicating with colleagues or clients as this could be viewed as a potential conflict of interest.

The following rules will apply where references are made to Rural Aid Ltd and related subsidiaries.

You must:

- only disclose and discuss publicly available information;
- ensure that all content/s published is accurate and not misleading and complies with Rural Aid policies;
- do not imply that the person comments are a representation of Rural Aid Ltd; and
- always be polite and respectful to all persons you are interacting with.

You must not:

- reveal confidential or commercially sensitive information about Rural Aid Ltd or other employees, volunteers, clients, and sponsors; parents, children, or anyone associated with Rural Aid Ltd;
- post material that is offensive, obscene, defamatory, threatening, harassing, bullying discriminatory, hateful, racist, sexist, infringes copyright;
- use your work email address or any organisation logo's or insignia that may give the impression of official support or endorsement of your personal comment;
- use the identity of another employee, contractor, client, customer, sponsor or other member of Rural Aid Ltd;
- post any material that is or might be construed as threatening, harassing, bullying or discriminatory towards another employee/contractor of Rural Aid Ltd;
- make any comment or post material that might otherwise cause damage to Rural Aid's reputation or bring the organisation into disrepute; and
- publish comments or report on conversations or information that is deemed confidential or classified.

Using Social Media Sites and not mentioning Rural Aid

Rural Aid Ltd has no interest in what their volunteers or employees do when participating on websites in their own time and away from work, where they do not mention and give no association with Rural Aid Ltd.

It is very important that all parties, employees and volunteers abide by the following:

- blog comments are permanently accessible. Tracking tools can identify the contents of a website at a particular date, even if the contents are deleted later on;
- management can do a search of the employees' name and will produce a full list of any blogged comments about organization. This means anyone with internet access can find these comments;
- a search using an email address or individual name will also produce a full list of comments and other material made from that address or attributed to that individual; and
- any personal comments or photos can be accessible by not only Rural Aid Ltd, its clients and customers, but also any future employers. This can be detrimental to your position at Rural Aid Ltd and any future employment prospects you may have.

Breach of Policy

Non-compliance with this policy has the potential to damage the reputation, image of competitive, or financial position of Rural Aid Ltd, and may result in disciplinary action, which could include termination of employees' and volunteers' in certain cases.

Any parties, employees and volunteers that breach the law in anyway, such as, but not limited to, committing fraudulent acts, and uploading or downloading of pornographic material, may be personally liable for their actions through common law claims.

Rural Aid Ltd takes breaches of policy extremely seriously and where applicable, your details maybe passed onto the Queensland Police Service for further investigation and/or prosecution.

Press Authorization

Any third parties, employees and volunteers are not allowed to give interview, film, photograph, tape, or otherwise make a video reproduction or record voice in relation to any press matter relating to Rural Aid Ltd. Rural Aid takes the authority to handle any matter in relation to any press Release. All Press related matters are directed to CEO or his/her elected Officer.

Policy Review

The Media Policy will be reviewed from time to time, and all parties, employees and volunteers will be trained, educated and will be required to sign an acknowledgement that they understand and will comply with this policy.

Rural Aid is committed in providing an environment which is safe for all who attend or work at its workplaces.

MEDIA AUTHORISATION

I hereby understand the following in relation to any and all press matters:

- (a) I am not authorized to give interview, film, photograph, tape, or otherwise make a video reproduction of me and/or record my voice in relation to any press matter relating to Rural Aid Ltd;
- (b) I am not authorized to give my name in relation to any press matter relating to Rural Aid Ltd; and
- (c) I am not authorized to give quotes from the interview(s) (or excerpts of such quotes), the film, photograph(s), tape(s) or reproduction(s) of me, and/or recording of my voice, in part or in whole, in its publications, in newspapers, magazines and other print media, on television, radio and electronic media (including the Internet), in theatrical media and/or in mailings in relating to Rural Aid Ltd.
- (d) I must ensure any and all press related matters are directed to Rural Aid Ltd Chief Executive Officer or his/her elected officer.

Workplace Health and Safety Policy

Rural Aid Ltd is committed to providing its all parties (employees and volunteers) with a safe workplace. It is our aim to create a work environment in which all parties (employees and volunteers) feel safe and secure.

Rural Aid Ltd is committed to complying with the Work Health and Safety Act 2011, to reduce and minimise work-related accidents, injury and illness.

In order to achieve our commitment and comply with the Work Health and Safety Act 2011, Rural Aid has established a Workplace Health and Safety management system to ensure all possible measures are taken to remove (or at least reduce) risks to the health and safety of all employees, contractors, authorised visitors, volunteers and anyone else who may be affected by Rural Aid’s operations.

12.1 Rural Aid Ltd aims to:

- 12.1.1 provide services in a manner that protects the safety and wellbeing of its employees and volunteers using its services;
- 12.1.2 ensure that all parties (employees and volunteers) are suitably qualified or experienced people who are competent in undertaking their roles within the organization in a safe manner;
- 12.1.3 ensure that all injuries and incidents that occur are reported promptly and accurately using an incident form (incident forms are available from Human Resources Department);
- 12.1.4 ensure all posted health and safety procedures are followed and utilize personal protective equipment (PPE) and suitable safety equipment properly where appropriate. This is to protect you and fellow employees and volunteers, from accident or serious injury at all times.
- 12.1.5 ensure unsafe workplace conditions and defective working conditions or equipment is reported and rectified immediately with the relevant supervisor or manager.

This policy will be communicated to all parties (employees and volunteers). It will also be periodically reviewed to ensure it remains relevant and appropriate to the relevant Rural Aid operating procedures and to any and all state and federal legislation changes.
